

On an average day,
several children
in Lucas County
must be removed
from their homes
because their families are
in crisis.

Some are victims of physical or sexual abuse. Others suffer from neglect or poor supervision. A few have lost their parents altogether through a drug overdose or incarceration.

We don't go home at night until we find a safe, temporary home for every single child.
But we need your help.

Foster parents help children to bear the pain of separation. They provide temporary care in a loving home while LCCS caseworkers help their parents work out their problems. Sometimes this takes months or over a year. Either way, the goal is always to safely reunite children with their birth families.

Make a difference in a child's life.
Become a foster parent.
